

Sinclair Wilson Information Technology – effective business systems made simple.

- Software support
 - advice on “off the shelf” software solutions
 - provide custom built software
- Hardware Advice
- Training
 - specialist training for Quicken/Myob/Banklink range of products
- Troubleshooting
 - assistance in troubleshooting both hardware and software issues
- Networking Advice

Sinclair Wilson
Information Technology
Effective systems made simple

Ensuring your business runs well – and is profitable – is hard enough work in itself.

Knowing whether you've got the right system to support your business can be a whole other issue that a business owner or operator doesn't need.

How do you know the advice you are getting is in the best interests of your business? Is it using the latest technology? The most reliable technology?

Sinclair Wilson Information Technology is a one-stop means of identifying and developing information technology systems that suit the needs and growth of your business, first and foremost.

Tailored system solutions

At Sinclair Wilson, you have the advantage of having access to a diverse range of business professionals, all highly experienced in ensuring the greatest efficiency in all areas of commerce.

Our IT team is experienced and constantly reviewing its own systems, not to mention its knowledge of the different systems on the market.

And should you find that there's yet to be a system developed that best suits the needs of your business, Sinclair Wilson Information Technology is able to specially tailor either an existing business system, or create a new one from the ground up.

Again, this is done in close consultation with the accountants and business advisors that know your business best, to ensure that all needs and requirements are addressed.

Complete support – from design, to installation and beyond...

Identifying the best system for your business is one thing. Making sure it works is another.

Sinclair Wilson Information Technology offers complete support, whether it's identifying or designing what your business needs, through to installation.

Training is also a crucial component. The right system will always fail if it's not utilised properly.

Training and troubleshooting, and ongoing support, are as an important part of Sinclair Wilson Information Technology's service as installing the software.

We can provide training and support no matter how big or small your needs may be – from a one-on-one tutorial, to a company-wide training program.

